BURDETTE

Pays a Tribute to the Memory of His Dear Mother.
Bennie Gibbs is one of the daring, venture some boys in my memory of school days. His pa was a school director, and consequently Bennie defied the teachers in the Gibbs school to an extent that made him heroic in our eyes. It was always understood that Bennie was to test every new teacher to see how much "sass" he would take before he broke out and left the reservation. One time old Mr. Grayson was sick and a substitute took the school for a few weeks. The substitute was a mild looking man, of middle age, somewhat bald, with a thin neck, sandy complexion, meek voice and padlock whiskers.
Not a boy of us was afraid of such a looking man as that; still, Bennie Gibbs, as usual, took the field for a reconnaissance the first morning. First he dropped a book on the floor. Then he dropped his slate. Then he pushed the big dictionary off the table. Then he whispered. Then he left his seat without permission. Then he slammed the door like an earthquake when he went into the recitation room. Then he whistled once. Then he mowed softly, like a cat. Then he whined like a dog. Then he said "Ma'am!" very loudly and pertly when the new teacher spoke to him very mildly, and we all laughed ourselves tired. Then Bennie coughed like an old man. Then it was time for recess and the new teacher looked at his watch and told us to put away our books and then he tiptoed meekly down the aisle to Bennie Gibbs' seat. He took Bennie by both shoulders and churned him up and

And churned him up and down.
down for a while and then he shook him until Bennie's hair began to fly out, and then he bent over the shrinking lad and wore out an ebony ruler on him. Then he said, in a re-echoing voice, "The school may have re-melted, and touched the bell for us to go out.
We walked out like boys walking to their own executions. That night Mr. Gibbs went to see the new teacher about it, and that meek man beat him with a chair leg until he had to be put to bed. You never saw such a man. He wasn't afraid of anybody. One day he put the president of the board of education out of the school room because he criticized the way the new man taught long division. This teacher, whose name was Moss H. Meeker, went into the Union army soon after the war broke out, and when one of our old boys, George Bloom, a Missouri boy, who had gone into the Confederate army and was serving under Price, heard that Meeker was in Grierson's cavalry, he deserted and came north and shot off three fingers of his right hand to avoid the draft. He said as soon as he heard that old Meeker had enlisted he knew the south had no chance. Meeker is a preacher now. He has been preaching in the same church for eighteen years, and never had but one row with the choir. That was the first Sunday he preached, and they do say that now, if he ordered that choir to sing the "Silver Street," they'd do it, if it burst the organ. — Robert J. Burdette in Brooklyn Eagle.

Why He Followed.
He was going home to his wife and family.
It was growing dark. He had a lonely road from the car and he was making as fast headway as he could, when he saw a man following him purposefully. The faster he went, the faster the man went and they came to a graveyard.
"Now," he said to himself, "I'll find out if he is after me," and he started through the cemetery. The man followed him. Vague visions of revolvers behind him, sensations of sandbags and loaded clubs and things grew upon him. He dodged around a grave and his pursuer dodged after him. He made a detour of a mausoleum. Still the forbidding shadow was after him, around and around.
At last he turned and faced the fellow.
"What in thunder do you want? What are you following me for?"
"Say, do you always go home like this?
I'm going up to —'s house to do a job of carpentering, and a man at the car told me I'd follow you. I'd find the place. Are you going home at all?" — San Francisco Chronicle.

He May Get It All.
"So you want my daughter?" queried a Chicago capitalist, as the young man finished his address and stood with folded arms.
"I do."
"What is used to luxury, you know?"
"Yes, sir, and she shall have all that heart can wish."
"But you are a poor young man, just getting a start in Dakota."
"Am I? I guess not. Our county has issued bonds to the amount of $250,000 for internal improvements. I am county treasurer and let all contracts."
"Take her, William, and remember that integrity is the key-note to success." — Wall Street Daily News.
